TO-MORROW, Sunday. September 25.

Here are some of the features which will ake THE SUNDAY WORLD to be issued prow by far the most interesting. ctive, elevating and amusing publion to New York or anywhere else in

THE SCARLET LETTER. The reader who fails to find something that appeals directly to his individual taste in this edition of THE WOLLD IS A very strange animal and cannot be very uar in his neighborhood. A great say men, even in these days, like serious things and appreciate good, substantial reading. For their benefit THE SUNDAY Wonte will publish, complete, Hawhorne's remarkable story "The Scarlet Letter." The trials and the high char acter of Miss Hester Prynne, who fell in love with Arthur Dimmendale and then went patiently through life with the scarlet letter " A " on her breast, a letter with a meaning far from complimen tary, can never grow old or unin-teresting. Those who have read the book already, as many thousands of THE WORLD's readers doubtless have done, will readily think of some friend or rela tive who would be very glad to have the story mailed to him Any man who buys Letter." If he has read it himself, into the ds of some one who has not read it will be as guilty as one who throws away WOMEN WHO ACT. good food because he has had enough to eat. Even those who have already read what is perhaps the greatest American novel may find comfort in reading it over again. The citizen who wallows in his own righteousness, moved by his admiration for poor Miss Prynne, will perhaps judge more humanely contemporaries in trouble, while the plain every-day cynic reading the doings of society, there to of the English law courts and "The Scarlet Letter" simultaneously may enjoy the task of calculating how much red flannel would cost a yard to-day if society were as strict and as well informed as in the days of Miss Prynne and the young clergyman. Mr. Richard Mansfield, who is acting the part of Dimmesdale in the drama tized version of " The Scarlet Letter," has Written for THE SUNDAY WORLD AN Article apropos of the novel's publication, which is very interesting and which proves what everybody knows, that Mr. Mansfield is many-sided young man. Mr. Mansfield in "The Scarlet Letter" is very attractive, as he is in everything, from "Prince Karl" to "Jekyll and Hyde," "Prince Kari" to "Jekyll and Hyde," but it is not the sort of a play that he should take on. He is not auted physically to the part of a sentimental, dreamy, shamefaced citizen like Dimmesdate. His neck, which is very muscular, and his broad shoulders and fat legs until him for such work. Forbes Hobertson, who was Mary Anderson's leading man in London, and who played in "The Scariet Letter" with Eleanor Calhoun, is long and thin and intense. Mansheld is a much better actor than Robertson, but he can never make as good a Dimmesdale. A man like Mansheld when he tries to look sentimental is sure to look as though he had a pain. Mr. Mansheld in his present production is further handicapped by the fact that he cannot find any actress who can compare with Miss Calhoun in the part of Hester Pryane. That young American woman, a descendant of the distinguished John Calhoun, did not make any mensy out of the play; quite the contrary, but she made every paper in England talk more enthusiastically about her than they had done about any actress in a long time.

who wants to play a bandit captain in a spectacular show, as soon as ane sees the manager is runliessly required to prove that she is litted for the part of a bandit captain in tights. The idea of this has kept many very well made young women from the stage beyond doubt, and that is why it is observed to be able to a sure cer girls that at least one manager is able to tell just how a girl will look in tights by simply examining her hand and more particularly her thumb. The Sexhay Worke does not expect that the public will remain satisfied with the mere outline of such an entrancing discovery, and, in order that each may estimate for himself the value of the invention, The Sexhay Worker when it each may estimate for himself the value of the invention, The Sunday World re-produces many well-known hands and legs and renders an unquestionable ser-vice to selence.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN.

Mr. William S. Walsh, who two weeks go described so beautifully and so accurately the ways and manners of the American girl, writes this week about the American Woman into which the Ameri-

will be a very pleasing element in the make-up of to-morrow's SUNDAY WORLD.

HE AMERICAN REPORTER.

Last Sunday THE WORLD talked about the American reporter and the work that he does. The account of his performhe does. The account of his performances will be continued this week. It will be found that the American reporter is an individual who thinks and acts quickly, and who is worthy of a great deal of the respect which he very often doesn't get. It will probably interest a good many Sunpay World readers to get a sort of an idea of the writers who work for them and for other newspapers.

MEN WHO ACT.

These gentlemen, as well as the women one of the most interesting and certainly has left Mr. Daly and struck out for him- York. self. It will, no doubt, soften Mr. Augustin Daiy's pangs of disappointment to read the pleasant things which The SUNDAY WORLD will say about Mr. Drew to-morrow and to look at the many pleatures of Mr. Drew which it will print. Mr. Daiy, of course, feels almost as though he had lost his right leg with Mr. Drew gone. Nothing could be so well calculated to relieve his feelings as the evidence of Mr. Drew's pronounced independent success. Mr. Henry Irving, the good actor who made a clown of Goethe's Mephistopheles, lives in interesting lodgings on the corner of Gratton and old Bond streets, very near to the rooms which Stanley occupied in the days before he discovered the hairy dwars and Miss Tennant. Everything about Mr. Irving is interesting. An article in The Sunbay World describes his namer of living, his rooms, and otherwise appeals to the curious and constantly growing inclination to know all about the private lives of those who are interesting in a public way. tin Daiy's pangs of disappointment

Of these Miss Lottle Collins is doubtles the most interesting this week. THE SUNDAY WORLD WILL MAKE people as familiar and well acquainted with the young woman as they can reasonably desire to be. The Woman's Page of THE SUNDAY WORLD, which will be found par-SUNDAY WORLD, which will be found particularly interesting this week, tells those things about Miss Collins which the female citizen will be most auxious to know how she dances, why she has become great, how much money she carns, &c. On the page devoted to theatrical news there will be found two sets of Illustrations, each consisting of four pictures. One series of Illustrations by Mr. De Bernebruch show the impression which Miss Collins made upon him. These pictures are calculated Hustrations by Mr. De Bernebruch abow the impression which Miss Collins made upon him. These pictures are calculated to drive young men to the Standard Theatre in crowds. The other series of Hustrations by the careful and conscien-tious Mr. McDougall are very different. Miss Lottie Collins will be greatly in-debted to The Sunday World for giving her a chance to see herself as two others see her.

A review, charmingly illustrated, of the latest and finest efforts of the funny artists, dealing for the most part with the position of the dachshund in the periodical humorous literature of Kurope, it also compares an objectionable feature of American comic papers with a possibly less objectionable one of those of Paris.

THE LAST DAYS OF COLUMBUS.

THE WORLD continues to impress upon the American people the fact that Christopher Columbus was a man entitled to a great deal of consideration. With THE SUNDAY World to-morrow will be issued a really fine engraving of Brozik's famous picture.
